

The Wired Lawyer

AdviceScene Quarterly Newsletter

Lawyers Providing Online Summary Advice

As a lawyer you most likely believe that legal services should be available to everyone in need. You generally use your education and experience to give friends and other people free legal information and advice. So why not do that online through the AdviceScene.com forum, at your own convenience? Every question you answer helps you grow your practice and attract new clients.

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

- 1 Lawyers Providing Online Summary Advice
- 1 People Increasingly Look to the Internet for Answers
- 2 Take Control of Your Advertising
- 3 5% of Gross Advertising Revenues Donated to Societies Providing Free Legal Services
- 4 Fully Moderated Site
- 5 Free Legal Listing

People Increasingly Look to the Internet for Answers

Many people look to the Internet for legal information that is readily available. Much of the information on the Internet is either incorrect or does not apply. You know people are relying on mis-information, so what can you do to assist? If you are willing to do free short fact-finding meetings over the phone or in the office, why not provide reliable legal information through an online forum on your own schedule?

Take Control of Your Advertising

By providing legal information on AdviceScene.com you are making yourself known to a vast Internet audience. You will gain exposure and advertising for your firm while providing useful legal answers to the online community. Take charge of your own advertising by taking charge of how many legal questions you answer on the AdviceScene.com forum. Potential clients will be able to easily find you on our searchable archive of past advice.

“AdviceScene.com believes that legal services should be available to everyone”

CLICK HERE	ROYAL LEPAGE		David Stevens
	Coast Capital Realty		Superior Service. Plain and Simple 250.893.1016

“Advertising with AdviceScene.com helps supply people with free legal services”

5% of Gross Advertising Revenues Donated to Societies Providing Free Legal Services

Not only can you help people with their legal questions online, but when you advertise with AdviceScene.com, you help the people who need legal services the most, but can't afford it. Five percent of our gross advertising revenues will go to non-profit societies that provide free legal services.

Fully Moderated Site

Put your mind at ease knowing that you've registered with a professionally-run site which is fully moderated. All the questions you receive through an email notification will only come to you once they have passed the moderator's scrutiny for appropriateness. You don't have to answer questions if you don't have enough information, are not qualified, or do not have the time--and you can take yourself off the forum any time you wish.

Free Legal Listing

Whether you register to give advice or not, sign up to give yourself and your firm a listing on AdviceScene.com, free of charge (includes name and contact information, email, website link, and photo).

At AdviceScene.com we believe that legal services should be available to everyone. Our site provides a much-needed link between lawyers and the public, all for free. There are no hidden costs associated to this service.

James R. Clapp, B.A., LL, B.

CLAPP & COMPANY

250.479.1422

BARRISTERS - SOLICITORS - NOTARIES - TRADEMARK AGENTS